If a student of the day branch, which is well learned and receives a scholarship, decides in its circumstances to go into academic leave, then it automatically deprives scholarships.

This is the so-called "unpaid vacation", the duration of which is negotiated individually in the deanate and also has its own nuances.

Then the student can recover from the university to his former specialty and again receive a scholarship, but only after the first session after a long break.

In addition, it is important to learn only for good estimates, because with a passage of the ball below "4", additional funding from the state is terminated.

So a student after his recovery can again return to the usual student life, as if there was no break, but in the eyes of the teachers, they will again have to earn credibility and affect their desire for study.

Lack of scholarships from contract soldiers

As you know, students are not expected to students of the contractual form of training, even, on the contrary, students should pay their studies every semester.

By the way, prices are cyclically increasing with each school year, so the contract is desirable to conclude immediately for the entire academic period.

There is an option when a student with good progress, active participation in the lives of the university and approximate behavior is transferred to the budget.

In such cases, he can count on a scholarship, but with bad studies again will be deprived of it.

However, such happy cases of translation to the budget are encouraging infrequently, and some universities are not practicing them at all.

How to save a scholarship?

Many students for whom the scholarship is extremely important, trying to successfully successfully pass the session and further draw their regular source of income.

Of course, it will not be easy, but options, how to maintain a scholarship, many, especially since in the resourcefulness and intelligence of modern students, it is not necessary to doubt.

Option first. There is a category of students who strive, but do not reach. Such teachers relate very loyal, especially if they see a burden interest in study.

This is how it is worth using, and all incomprehensible moments and themes can individually discuss with the teacher.

So you will soon be remembered, and your zeal to study only pollen by a qualified technician and will be elevated in his eyes.

Option second. There are such teachers who, even the most competent student in a matter of minutes, will prove that he does not know anything.

You should not argue and bend your line, and an upcoming teacher will surely put in place, and will do it oddly enough at the session.

So sometimes it is better to climb, and the proverb: "The word - silver, and silence - gold" here as never appropriate.

Option third. There are teachers who do not tolerate pastes on their pairs. It is enough to simply systematically go to lectures and practical classes, and we can assume that a good assessment in favor of the future scholarship is already in your pocket.

Walking - means challenging, and such a game, believe me, does not end in your favor.

Option fourth. There are specific teachers to which it is simply necessary to find the right approach, and a quiet student will do it quite easily.

The main thing is that he remembers you from the most positive side, and then there will be no problems.

Having studied all the options, it becomes clear that the student scholarship completely in the hands of the teacher, no matter how paradoxically sounded it.

If a mediocre student reaches a mutual understanding with a teacher and finds the point of contact, then for academic performance in the university you can no longer survive.

But here it is important - not to heal, and then from an exemplary student with the efforts and efforts of the teacher, you can turn into the greatest loss of society.
